Computer Networks: The Software

This is really the core business of computer networks – and it's hard. Fundamental to all software that makes a computer network run, is the notion of protocol hierarchies: structuring the services that a network must offer in terms of layers.