

Summary of the Descents of Ralph Edward Griswold and Madge Elaine Turner Griswold from Magna Carta Sureties 1215 and from the King's Liegemen Mentioned in the Magna Carta 1215
as of research completed on 8 May 2002

Madge Griswold

Many persons who are descended from early settlers of New England are descended from the Plantagenet English kings and those who came before them. The case of one particular Plantagenet king, John, is interesting for the names of those who rose to enforce the agreements made in the Magna Carta (sometimes called the Magna Charta and sometimes the Great Charter) in 1215.

Twenty five barons signed the charter to guarantee that it would be enforced. Of the 17 who have descendants that are known, one or the other of us is descended from 15 of them. A number of the king's liegemen, sheriffs, seneschals, or keepers of forests, for example, signed along with the king. Of the 13 listed, we are descended from several. Those names appear on the following pages. Our lines from John himself are listed in the document on our descents from the Plantagenet kings.

While collecting names is a passion with some, the context in which those persons lived is even more exciting. Just having the names to use as research guides can be useful.

This is a beginning work of a multistage project. The names are here. The details of birth, death, marriage, parentage, and children is in the Griswold-Turner data base in the Reunion 7 folder on my desktop computer, Angstadt. I will attempt to do the clerical work of filling that information in on this document as time permits, but as it exists it is workable using data bases and books that are available.

These lines have nearly all been proved through Frederick Lewis Weiss, The Magna Charta Sureties 1215, Fifth Edition, Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Company Inc., 1999. In the few cases that have not, I am sufficiently sure of the lines that I have left them in place.
